6.21.1857

In September last, a boy of some fourteen years, Boy<sup>r</sup> A. Munroe L. name, employed in No. 1, Spring Room, went into the attic of<sup>d</sup> Mill, where he had no business, and during work hours, wantonly & maliciously, caught the bell rope, and rang a false alarm. The operation whereby this was a fire in the prison was alarmed, many of them left their work, & for a time there was a considerable disturbance on the prison.

As soon as I ascertained the cause of the alarm, I found the boy, (who conscious of his misfeasance had merited himself) took him by his shoulder, and took him out of the Mill, & carried him off the prison, never to return. For this act of duty or crime, I was maliciously prosecuted, brought before a justice by the name of Cowan, who publishes a newspaper in Providence, & holds a Commission as Justice of the Peace, by whom no more insulting language, the criminal act of duty was exaggerated into a high handed assault & battery, for which this so-called Justice fined me Ten Dollars & costs of prosecution. Not content with this act of inspiration, this Cowan for several weeks in successive papers considerable portions of his newspaper, with false & malicious & libellous attacks & publications upon & against me, & sent a part of the same to the Boston Herald, for publication there, in order to damage my character & reputation as a citizen & as an agent, touching this alleged assault. Of course I appealed from the judgment of such a man, made under such circumstances, to the Supreme Judicial Court. And now on the fourteenth day of January, 1857, at Alfred, before Daniel

1. Chlorophyll a (Chl a) and Chlorophyll b (Chl b) are the primary photosynthetic pigments in green plants. They are responsible for capturing light energy and converting it into chemical energy through the process of photosynthesis. Chl a is the most abundant pigment, while Chl b is present in smaller amounts. Both pigments are found in the chloroplasts of green plants.
